HIS SPEE IN IN CONGRESS. In will be remembered that many Repullbrane out of personal consideration, voted for C. D. Martin when a candidate before the people for the place he now occorres. While in Congress he made one speece - not upon any of the many measures of national moment that presented themselves -- but a political harrangue, abued and labored to blow into importance it had occurred-been talked up and forgotten by every balf witted school boy in the country. We desire to give a few sample extracts from this wonderful sp. ech-Mr. Martin said:

Mr CHAIRMAN: I propose this morning to summit to the attention of the committee a few observations on the anomalous condition of the country. On the one side we behold our fellow-citizens and neighbors of the bouth arming themselves for se'f defence, against their brethren and fellow-a tizens of the North. They contemplate with complacency the uncertainties and calamities of disunion as a refuge END, thus indirectly sanctioning WHITE the Reputlican party are opposed to the from existing and impending evils in the SLAVERY.

The existing evils that in the opinion of Mr. Martin, justified the South in arming herself in "self-defence," and contemplating with complac ney a disso lution of the Union, were, 1st, the organization of the Republican party in the North, and 2d, the election of John Sherman of Ohio, Speaker of the House. The war of "self defence" they were waging consisted in the hurling of Litter denunciation upon the Union, threats of disrugtion, civil war and blood; the heaping of low, dirty blackguardism upon their betters-efforts to extend and nationalize human slavery. It consisted in their turn. ing the Lower House of Congress into a po house of turmoil confusion, and brackguardism. It consisted in threats to is treason to liberty."

We will give one other extract from Mr Martin's speech. Speaking of the John Brown raid he said:

"Those marauders were doubtless enouraged by the unpatriotic teachings of the leaders of the sell styled Republican party. For that party has notoriously and unblushingly employed every epithet of disparagement, and every form of misrepresentation of the people and institutions of slavet olding States.
